

Don't be an easy target!

For your security, Metro Transit Police officers are everywhere in the system—on Metrobuses and trains, at stations and in parking lots. But you play a role in your security, too.

We suggest that you follow these safety and crime prevention tips so that you don't become an easy target.

Late Night Travel Tips

- Travel with someone you know
- Stand near other passengers when waiting for a train or Metrobus
- If you feel uncomfortable, move near other people or look for a Metro employee for assistance
- Ride in a rail car occupied by other people or sit in the first car where the train operator is located
- Be alert to your surroundings

Protect your electronic device

- Carry your electronic device in a pocket or a place where it is not easily seen or in easy reach of others

Protect your electronic device (continued)

- Be smart about when and where you use your electronic device
- Change the color of your ear piece so that it does not readily suggest you carry an expensive electronic device
- Avoid sitting or standing near the doors of rail cars or Metrobuses

Report suspicious behavior and objectionable conduct immediately:

- Call the Metro Transit Police at 202-962-2121
- On a Metrobus, tell the operator
- In a station, use the emergency telephones located on platforms to talk to a station manager
- In a rail car, use the emergency intercoms located at both ends of the rail car to talk to the train operator
